*Wagon ride tour of the winery, wine tasting and dinner

Winery owner Sharon Klay and her husband John first developed an interest in winemaking while living in New York City in the 1970s. This interest led them to research and select the nearly 100 varieties of grapes that would be suitable for cool climate growing conditions. When the Klay's relocated to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, they searched for three years to find a suitable vineyard site. In 1986, the couple purchased a 215-acre farm in Chalk Hill, Pennsylvania. Sharon decided to take the original 1,000 vines on the property to 14,000 vines. In 1994, Fayette County's first commercial winery opened, named after the Klays' son Christian. Their wine was the first to be sold at Walmart in Pennsylvania!
